Such comment was gible ears of the defunct St. Gauden's youthful shade must still be tingling.

The superlative of "unique"-had poor word such a state-might well be used to characterize the coins, and without exceeding descriptive limitations. The the large bird which roosts on one side and which, precedent and custom label-ling it an eagle, bears out the truth of that ancient art adage that intense and London between five and six. concentrated homliness is akin to beauty. But the eagle of the coin is not the eagle of commerce, that magnificent bird of prey and freedom found in some aeries and all zoos. The American eagle is a large full-blooded biped with a rough on. If it is true, as reported, that a tame live eagle posed for the designer of the coin, then that eagle must have had a sense of humor. That's the generally accepted explanation among those who have seen the new coin, even at a distance.

tractive, showing as it does the head of a masculine young woman, clad in rooster feathers and a far-away expression. The composition does not center by reason of the feathers, leaving altogether too much blank space to be any-thing artistic. Around the edge of the coin, instead of the familiar "milling" is a row of stars, poorly stamped, and showing between them at irregular intervals the marks of die jointure.
At a distance of three feet the new coin to the layman looks like a cross between a pure food show souvenir and a medal offered at the annual Y. M. C. A. indoor But it is doubtless artistic.

LONDON, November 4, 1997. Lord Cromer, who bids fair to become a leader in parliament and lift his voice in favor of free trade as opposed to the 6th tariff reformers, created an excellent impression this week when he was given I hear that Sir Thomas Lipton has now the freedom of London. His person does not belie the prestige of his personality as he rose to speak and held for twenty Shamrock, built on stronger lines, will un minutes the great audience riveted in breathless silence.

With the flag of Egypt hanging loos above his head, neighbor of the semifolded Union Jack. The enunciation was perfect. To-ward the end his voice failed a little, and it was not so easy to catch every part of a sentence, though he made use of a glass of water.

It was a scene memorable in every way. where the central figure was in harmony with the splendid symbolism about him. In his speech Lord Cromer gave interesting information about the Egyptian habit of hoarding money. He had heard, he said, of an Egyptian who died leaving a fortune of £80,000, the whole of which was found in gold coin in the of which was found in gon cellar. Another had bought an estate for Mr. Alton K. Parris of representative men £25,000. The control of the c Government Railways.

Whatever the result of the railway dispute may be, it has brought the nationalization of rallways within the region of practical discussion. A few months ago such an event would have been regarded as outside the range of actual politics, ROUTE OF AMERICAN MAILS but now men are looking to it as the per manent solution of the questions that ngi-tate the railway world. It may be said that public opinion has hitherto been in the main, hostile to the policy of nationalization, and what is wanted at present is light and information on the ques tion. I understand that it is not unlikely that a small parliamentary committee NATIONAL RAILWAY OWNERS will be appointed to investigate the work ing of railways which are under the con trol of the state in other countries—Ger-many, Italy and Belgium being the countries where the system can be seen nest effectually in operation.

A full examination by an impartial as thority into the working of state-owned railways would do much to enlighten public opinion. It is generally assumed, especially by popular speake's, that the working of national railways has been o great advantage to the public. This view is not accepted by many people with have had experience of railways in G ramany, Italy and other countries, and it is the efore, desirable that the matter show be investigated by a competent tribunal.

Cty Better Than Counties in Recent State Election. BALTIMORE, November 16 .- The tabulation of the vote in Baltimore city and the official returns give Judge Crothers a plurality of 4.143. In the entire state the plurality is 7,799 He, therefore, received 3,656 plurality in the counties, or only about 500 less than in the city. Crothers received 45,777 and Gaither 41. 634. In the counties there were returned 169,092 votes, of which Crothers received 56,374 and Gaither 52,718.

troller, received 39,288 votes in Baltimore and McCullough, republican, 38,064, while four years ago Warfield, democrat, for governor had 47.724, and Williams, re-publican, 41.802. It would appear from this that the republicans in this city held their own, while the democrats lost about 2,000 votes.

In the counties of the state the democrats had a plurality of about 7,000. They then polled 4,450 more than they did this year, while the republicans polled 1,000 more. The result in the city justifies the co duct of the republican campaign in this city by the regular organization, directed by Chairman Platt of the city committee, Collector William F. Stone, Sheriff Pad-
